

From the first day of my STSM in BIOMIC group at Aristotle University in Thessaloniki I was accepted as a group member. The collaboration with colleagues from Greece was supportive, with mutual respect, making my visit very pleasant, interesting, and fruitful. As a senior researcher, I am very grateful to EpiLipidNET for allowing my STSM and giving me a chance to further broaden my knowledge and experience.

(Expected) outcomes:

I got a practical experience which can help to improve lipide related research and data processing at home institution; The results obtained from this STSM, are planned to be disseminated through presentation at scientific meetings and in scientific publications; We exchanged our knowledge from previous practice on animal models in nutritional research and made basis for future joined projects and collaborations.
